Course Description

The primary objective for English 11 is to help students achieve their highest potential in the areas of reading, writing, listening, speaking, and critical thinking. English 11 is designed to prepare students for the rigors of upper-level English courses in both high school and college should they choose to pursue such courses in the future.

Goals for Student Learning

The curriculum addresses one essential question per quarter. Over the course of the school year, students will read and analyze literature, poetry, drama, and non-fiction texts. They will evaluate each text based on its own merit while noting its connection to other texts and its contribution to the unit's essential question. Students will ultimately answer the essential question based upon the texts, class discussions, research, literary criticism and personal experiences.

Students will become stronger and more confident readers and writers. They will become more attuned listeners and more deliberate speakers recognizing the power that language possesses. They will think critically about issues of compassion, social justice, and ambition.

In addition to Common Core standards and HCPS curricular requirements, English 11 students will work to achieve the following goals:

- Develop habits of mind that promote reading comprehension
- Use strategies to select “just right” texts
- Apply reading strategies to a variety of texts
- Practice critical thinking and analysis skills
- Compose responses to literature and other writing assignments
- Engage in performance tasks (presentations, portfolios, etc.) to demonstrate mastery

A Final Note

Students are always welcome to stop in room B112 before or after school if they need help with an assignment. Also, it is asked if a student is to miss a class due to a sport, field trip, doctor's appointment, etc., they are to get the assignments ahead of time. This can easily be accomplished via It's Learning. If a student is absent, it is also asked for the student to get the missed work on the day on It's Learning so that they may be prepared for the next class.
